(By Associated Press.)
NASHVILLE, TENN., June 15.—A sweet voiced young woman of Norfolk. Va., Mins Mary K. Ewell, maid of honor for the South, by her singling of "My Old Kentucky Home" to-day won for Louis-ville the reunion next year of the United Confederate Veterans. It was after the cld veterans had chosen Lieutenant-General Stephen D. Loe as their commander-in-chief and had listened to a stirring speech by Colonel Bennet H. Young, of Kentucky, extolling the beauties, capability and hospitality of the homes of the city and their desire to entice the followers of the stars and bars, that Miss Ewell was everted to the front of the siage. Her voice thrilled the great crowd that filled the Tabernacle, and the last note of the famous song had barely left her lips when the convention went wild with shouts of "Louisville!" Feconding speeches were unnecessary, although General Lee graciously permitted one from a Virginia delegate and another from Kantucky before recording the choice of the veterans as unanimous. The date will be determined later. The veterans, in addition to the electing of officers, disposed of a vast amount of routine business, but did not complete their work, and a final session will be held at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoom.

Memorial Association Meets.
The Southern Confederate Memorial sociation met, heard numerous welcoming addresses and responses and adjourned until to-morrow.

The veterans will have their annual parade to-morrow morning, the start to be made at 10 o'clock. Owing to the increasing infirmities of the old soldiers, the route was almost cut in two to-day by those having the parade in charge.

to-day, Commander-in-Chief Fayssou presiding, Reports of different committees were heard. It was recommended that headquarters offered them in New Cricans be accepted and that a permanent secretary be employed. The total number of camps was announced as 481, but only 104 are in good standing. The quartermaster announced that after paying the expenses of the year the cash in hand was 413. Former Governor McMillin addressed the Sons, congratulating them on the fact that the histories being taught in the Tennessee public schools were written by Confederates.

The report of the Women's Memorial Committee shows 43,524 in bank and subscriptions of 45,000 outsianding. It is proposed to raise $50,000 to orect a monument to the patriotism of the swites.

A resolution was adopted endorsing the ment to the patriotism of the women of the sixtles.

A resolution was adopted endorsing the Federal protection and care of graves of Confederates who died in Northern prisons. The resolution urges the Southern representatives in Congress to press the passage of a bill through Congress appropriating $200,000 for the Federal care of such Confederate dead.

Chairman Owen submitted the report of the Historical Committee, and it was adopted. It showed that the North was showing a spirit of co-operation in the matter of Southern history, and was returning trophies to the South.

Louisville invited the Sons to meet there next year.

The chorus sang splendidly and was at once encored. The opening number was "The Morning Invitation," by Veszle, Mr. Walter C. Mercer conducted the singing. Miss Julia Hening presided at the plano, and the Academy orchestra assisted. The evening was a record of triumph for the young artists. The auditors chapted themselves ifred; thes ingdes sang until seemed impossible to call them back again. At no time did one number satisfy. The chorus had to sing at least two encores each of the dve times it appeared, Among the numbers were "Pilgrims Chorus," from Tannhauser; "Legend of the Bells," from Chimes of Normandy; "O, Tell Us, Merry Birds," by White, and "Homeward Bound," from Il Trovatore. As encores the chorus sang with an awompanying applause the old fayorite sirs, "Dixie," "Maryland," "Fonnie Blue Flag," "My Old Kentucky Home" and others.

He gianced at the white dresses of the girls and declared that he was a blackbird in a showstorm, or a spot of link on a sheet of white paper. He told stories, made clever hits, and ticked everybody, until the audience was in a broad grin. Professor Currell allounced his subject, "Literature and Life," to which he gave a half hour's discussion. He defined literature to be the artistic embodiment in words of the thoughts and emotions of life, and then shiwed the intimacy between the two. Ho divided books, according to the model or De Quincey, into books of fact and books of power, to these last he showed the major portion of his attention. In the course of his address he pointed out to the youns graduates the manifold benefits they could derive from close acquaintance with these books of power, the books that encourage and inspire to great deeds.

Day at West Point Spent in Tar- Counsel Charged That Tremenget Practice and Base-Ball.

The sixtleth anniversary of the Richmond Grays was celebrated at West Point yesterday, and the exercises were most enjoyable.

The Committee on Entertainment, configutenant J. B. Brady. Second Lleuten-ant Charles A. Watson and Sergeant H. E. Atkinson, are to be congratulated on the way in which they cared for their hosts.

About forty-five of the active mem-bers and a large number of the veterans took part in the celebration.

Medals for target practice were pre-sented to the active members by Mr. A. L. Davis as follows:

I. Davis as follows:

The banquet served by the Beach Park Hotel was of a high order of culinary achievement, and after a flerce engagement the gallant soldiers vanquished it. This was followed by speeches under the direction of Lieutenant E. C. Garrison, to whose request the following gentiemen responded; Major Charles O. Saville, Lieutenant Brady, ex-Lieutenant H. L. Jenkins, ex-Captain H. G. Dickerson, and the present commandant, Captain W. M. King, Jr. all of whom spoke in a most encouraging way and gave good advice for the future welfare of the company. Change of Venue by Judge Hundley.

dous Conspiracy Had Been Secretly Formed.

BUCKINGHAM COURTHOUSE, VA., June 15.—E. C. Wooldridge, for the past in Buckingham county and one of the most prominent figures in the press of sisting of Capitain W. M. King, Jr., First most prominent figures in the press of the State, left the Buckingham jail late this afternoon, having been bailed in the amount of five thousand deflars for his amount of five thousand dollars for his appearance before a special term of the court called for the 18th day of July.

Young Dan Wooldridge, his son, who was also out on ball, drove his father home in a buggy. This release of Wooldridge, without a fight on either side, came as a climax to a day of great legal activity here. From 2 o'clock until nearly night? the ceunsel in the case fought a tremendous battle for and against a change of venue, the court-room being crowded the whole time with crizens and visiting lawyers.

Change of Venue

Change of Venue.

The defense led by Congressman Flood and Mr. V. E. Howard contended through the afternoor for a transferrance of the case to Farmville, in Prince Edward county, where it was alleged it could be tried by an impartial jury, unsurrounded by any possible prejudice, but Judge Hundley finally refused to grant the contention, retaining the case in Buckingham county, and setting the third Monday in July as the time for the trial. The trial of this case brought forth testimony of intense interest, and developed features that go to prove only more surely than ever the remarkably sensational character of this knotty case.

From all sides comes the confirmation from the citizens, as well as from the barristers, that no such mysterious case has ever been known or heard of in this section of the State before.

At 2 o'clock to-day Mr. V. E. Howard filled the affidavit of the three prisoners begging not a change of venire, but a change of venue, alleging in this affidavit the following grounds: The tremendous excitement and bitterness existing against the prisoners in Buckingham county. The fact that Peter A. Forbes, clerk of the court, is a brother of the late John S. Forbes, whose house was burned and had contributed money to prosecute the suspects, and, furthermore,

This affidavit was a most interesting document, and disclosed at least the supposition that there existed a most remarkable condition of affairs. The affidavit was vigorously answered by Messrs. Strode and Hubbard, who were in turn answered by Mr. Flood, who made a remarkable speech. Mr. Flood said the affidavit was not intended to reflect upon the character or integrity of the Buckingham people, but that it was intended to avoid a tremendous conspiracy, which had been secretly formed against one of the prisoners.

Mr. Flood Dramatic.

Mr. Flood Dramatic.

Speaking in a dramatic manner, Mr. Flood stated that not far from the court-house there was a coterie of men who were thirsting for this man's blood by misrepresentation, misstatements and falsehoods. They are seeking to arouse a malicious sentiment which will cheat these men out of a fair trial. He said this a malicious sentiment which will cheat these men out of a fair trial. He said this is a mysterious case, and it becomes more mysterious every day.

Mr. E. Van Anderson, a magistrate, and a half-uncle of Charlle Forbes, was placed on the stand und gave testimony of great interest. The testimony also shows the intense excitement, which prevailed through the county. Sheriff William Williams was examined, and he also testified to the interest manifested in the case, but claimed that the acoused could get a fair trial.

Mr. Peter A. Forbes, clerk of the court and brother of the late John S. Forbes, next took the stand, and testified at length as to his connection with the case, and his employment of sounsel to prosecute the accused.

The prescution, who opposed the change of venue, then produced many witnesses, all prominent men, to prove that there was no dangerous excitemen in the county, and the accused would get a fair trial. Among those examined were William C. Chattell, of New Store, near the place of the burning. Mr. Chattell is chairman of the Democratic County Committee. Henry E. The examination of witnesses was followed by a spirited argument on the part of the counsel. Mr. Edmond W. Hubbard's speech in defense of his native county was widely complimented. Judge Hundley, in a short speech, denied the motics for the change of the venue and stated that the case must be tried in Buckingham county and as quickly as possible. It is understood that his sister, Miss Janie Forbes, who is a beautiful girl, will return here to-morrow and go security for his release from custody.

Mr. Jack Lee returned to Lynchburg to-day, taking with him the young woman, who was summoned to testify in Charlie Forbes behalf. She will return here when the case is tried. There is no great excitement prevailing in the county if yow, but it is safe to say that every freeholder in the county is looking forward to the 18th of July, when there will come to trial one of the most remarkable and at the same time one of the most well'd and mysterious cases ever known in Virginia.

Hunt, the murderer of Fleet Wilkins, was hanged here to-day with a hife. Fourteen minutes after drop fell, he was pronounced dead by the physicians in charge, thus ending the life of a most desperate negro. There was a sigh of relief when it was known that it was over, and gratifying to all law-abiding ditizens that the law had been allowed to take its course, and that mob violince had not been resorted to.

Fleet Wilkins, a young white man, who was his victim, was the proprietor of a store, just two miles from Rodxhore, at a saw-mill. This negro, under the influence of liquot, went to the store and demanded the money, which was due him. He was told by Wilkins that his brother had the account, and that he had gone to Lynchburg for the day, and, not knowing what was due the negro, refused to pay all the negro being a very powerful one, soon had the life most beat out of young Wilkins. By some means Wilkins, got out of the store and staggered along home. Hunt overtook him and killice him, almost at his own deer, literally crushing the life out of him, breaking nearly every hone in the young man's body, and horrhly mutilating him. There was a sultborn flyth put up to save the negro's life, but of no avail, the Governor refusing to commute his sentence.
